About this report

This Work and Development Order (WDO) annual report provides an overview of the WDO scheme for interested parties.

The WDO scheme was implemented as a trial in 2009 and made permanent in 2011 after a positive evaluation. It is an example of co-design and collaboration between Government, community and private sectors to deliver real community benefit to the people of NSW.

Under the WDO scheme, disadvantaged people who have accumulated fines can clear their debts by undertaking activities which benefit them and the community. The scheme is limited to people who have serious medical, mental health or addiction problems; who have a cognitive impairment or intellectual disability; who are homeless; or who are in serious financial hardship.

WDOs are supervised by sponsors in the community, including government agencies; non-government organisations (such as charities); or health practitioners (doctors, psychologists, nurses).

The activities that can be included are very broad and are intended to benefit both the participant and the community. These include: unpaid work; education, vocational or life skills courses; financial and other types of counselling (including case management); medical or mental health treatment; drug or alcohol treatment; or mentoring (if the person is under 25). A WDO can reduce fines debt by up to $1,000 per month.

This annual report covers the WDO scheme as at 30 June 2018 with particular focus on the 2017/18 financial year.

Departments and statutory bodies involved with the WDO scheme may be required to submit annual reports under the Annual Reports (Departments) Act 1985 or Annual Reports (Statutory Bodies) Act 1984. Those departments and statutory bodies are defined in the Public Finance and Audit Act 1983.

This report is provided for information only and does not meet or replace any other requirement to produce or submit an annual report.

Message from the WDO Governance Group

Welcome to the second edition of the WDO annual report. We continue to implement improvement measures across the scheme and this resulted in a number of positive outcomes. The report highlights our achievements in the 2017/18 financial year, and I am pleased to share these with you.

WDO sponsor growth

The scheme has seen an increase in the numbers of health practitioners approved as sponsors, growing by 64% compared to the previous financial year. This is a welcomed growth to the scheme and to clients, especially those needing assistance in the psychiatric, drug and alcohol and counselling spaces.

There have been continued efforts to recruit more sponsors from government agencies across NSW. We will continue this work in 2018/2019.

As of May 2017, for-profit organisations were able to be approved as WDO sponsors. A total of 15 for-profit organisations have been approved as at June 2018. This is a boost to sponsors numbers and ensures more participation, access and better outcomes for WDO clients.

Training and education

In terms of training, continued efforts of Legal Aid NSW and Revenue NSW have seen an increase in the number of legal education workshops and webinars. In 2017/18, total of 296 workshops on WDO and fines had been delivered across NSW.

WDO audit

The Department of Justice has led an independent compliance audit of approved organisations and health practitioners (sponsors) participating in the WDO scheme. The purpose of the audit was to assist the WDO Governance Group in maintaining the integrity of the WDO scheme, by confirming that approved sponsors are operating in accordance with their sponsor requirements.

WDO sponsors were advised of the audit and those selected for audit were individually notified in May 2018. I would like to thank the WDO sponsors for their participation in the audit.

The audit is in the final stages of completion and I expect the final audit report to be issued to the WDO Governance Group sometime this year.

The audit report will also include improvement opportunities on how WDO processes can be improved to better support WDO sponsors in complying with their obligations under the WDO Guidelines.

Self-service portal improvement

The self-service portal is an important tool that supports sponsors to support clients. The portal allows:

- Online applications for WDOs on behalf of clients
- Variation of existing WDOs for clients
- The ability to record the number of hours in which a client participates in a WDO activity.

Further improvements to the WDO self-service portal will be made this financial year to help WDO sponsors comply with their obligations under the WDO Guidelines. We will continue to seek sponsors' feedback in relation to further enhancements.

It has been another year of strong commitment from sponsors, to assist and support disadvantaged members of our community. Sponsors are a crucial part of the WDO scheme, and the Governance Group appreciates their continuous support of the scheme.

Kathrina Lo
Deputy Secretary, Department of Justice
On behalf of the WDO Governance Group

Corporate governance and support

In this section of the report, we have provided information about how the Work and Development Order (WDO) scheme is governed and the role that the scheme partners play to support it. Scheme partners include the Department of Justice, Revenue NSW and Legal Aid NSW.

About the WDO Governance Group

The WDO Governance Group oversees the WDO scheme to make sure it is administered responsibly and in line with Government and community expectations.

It is made up of representatives from the Department of Justice, Revenue NSW and Legal Aid NSW. The Group meets bi-monthly and the meetings are chaired by the Department of Justice.

The WDO Governance Group is responsible for:

- monitoring scheme performance against its objectives
- anticipating and responding to issues affecting WDO sponsors and clients
- interpreting the WDO Guidelines and recommending changes to the NSW Attorney General as required
- adjudicating and acting on instances where possible breaches of the Guidelines are brought to its attention, or where special consideration (as defined by the Guidelines) may be appropriate
- adopting planning, probity, due diligence and other practices designed to ensure the longevity and integrity of the WDO scheme by focusing efforts on scalability, risk mitigation and inclusive engagement with all key stakeholders and participants.

In addition to its regular bi-monthly meetings, the WDO Governance Group also engages in a planning day at the start of each financial year.

Focus for 2017/18 and beyond

The WDO Governance Group will meet shortly to plan how it will support the WDO scheme in the next financial year and beyond. Some key focuses will include:

- Implementing recommendations from the recent audit of WDO sponsors and establishing a streamlined and regular system of audit that will be easier for WDO sponsors in the future.
- Reviewing the WDO Guidelines and recommending changes to the Attorney General to address important issues raised by WDO sponsors.
- Expanding on the WDO sponsor forums to provide better opportunities for WDO sponsors to have their say about scheme design.
- Identifying service gaps in the WDO scheme and working towards our goal of making sure every eligible person across NSW who is in need of help can access a WDO.
- Make improvements to the WDO self-service portal to make it easier for sponsors to support the scheme.

Revenue NSW WDO hotline

The WDO Hotline is a service provided by Revenue NSW to support WDO sponsors and customers. Customers call the hotline to find out about WDOs and for help finding a sponsor. WDO sponsors call the hotline to enquire about signing up, to clarify the WDO Guidelines and for help with the WDO self-service portal.

The WDO Hotline is comprised of a small team of specialist staff who are passionate about the scheme. WDO sponsors often give positive feedback about the personalised service provided on the WDO Hotline. However, it may surprise you to know how busy the WDO Hotline is.

In 2017/18, Revenue NSW answered 38,019 calls on the WDO Hotline, an average of 166 calls per day.

The same team also manages the Advocacy Hotline, which is a priority service for advocates, who are assisting customers in hardship to manage their fines. The team also answered 7,405 calls on the Advocacy Hotline in 2017/18.

Revenue NSW also has two Aboriginal Customer Advisory Officers who provide face-to-face outreach services in communities.

In 2017/18, Revenue NSW provided outreach services at 178 community days across NSW. Those services helped:

- 512 customers to go on a low-rate payment plan to manage a combined debt of $2.18m, and
- 317 customers to restore their licence, registration or access to services with the Roads and Maritime Services.

Legal Aid NSW WDO service

The WDO Service at Legal Aid NSW was established in 2012. Staff in six locations across NSW support the implementation and expansion of the WDO scheme in areas of high fines debt and social disadvantage.

The WDO Service recruits and trains sponsors, delivers an extensive community legal education program and facilitates WDO placements for vulnerable clients.

Lawyers also provide fines advice and assistance services at fines clinics, outreach events and by phone.

Highlights in 2017/18 include:

- Expanded WDO webinar series, including new masterclasses, in response to sponsor growth and demand. Ten webinars were delivered throughout the year reaching 738 participants;
- Sponsor forums delivered in 17 communities across NSW including regional and remote areas;
- WDO training at FACS Leaving and Aftercare Forums;
- In service training for Revenue NSW staff on the role of Legal Aid NSW and referral pathways;
- Sponsor Operations Taskgroup established to streamline and coordinate sponsor support;
- New suite of WDO publications;
- Cross-border initiatives to support the introduction of similar schemes in Victoria and Queensland;
- Targeted engagement with regional and remote Aboriginal communities in partnership with the Legal Aid NSW Civil Law Service for Aboriginal Communities;
- Joint outreach with the new Legal Aid NSW Driver Disqualification Reform team; and
- Ongoing contribution to fines system reform informed by the lived experience of our clients.

Legal Aid’s Civil Law Division’s top category of legal advice and assistance was fines and WDO work. The Division provided more than 9,400 instances of fines and WDO assistance during the year.

This year, the WDO service introduced a survey tool to capture additional outcomes and referral data. The survey ran from 1 October 2017 to 30 June 2018. Snapshot results include:

- Auditing WDO sponsors to protect the integrity of the WDO scheme
- Overseeing evaluation of the WDO scheme
- Approving WDO sponsors

The WDO Governance Group will work on sharing information about these important activities with WDO sponsors soon.

5.2 Growth in financial year

The number of WDOs approved each month continued to increase this year. May 2018 was the month that 2999 WDOs were approved – the most applications approved in one month ever.

Table 5.2.1 shows the number of WDOs approved each month in 2017/18, and the value of fines debt attached to those WDOs at the time they were approved. The average debt for the participants in 2017/18 was $3,383, an increase of approximately 10% on the previous year.

5.3 Debt cleared through WDOs since the scheme was made permanent

As WDO volumes have increased, so too has the value of debt cleared through WDOs. In total, over $124m of fines debt has been cleared through WDOs.

Table 5.3.1 shows the amount of debt cleared through WDOs each year.

5.4 Debt cleared through WDOs in financial year

The WDO scheme met another milestone in June 2018, when $3.4m in debt was cleared through WDOs. This is the highest amount of debt cleared in a single month since the scheme commenced.

Table 5.4.1 shows the amount of debt cleared each month in 2017/18.

5.5 Closed WDOs

WDOs can be closed for a number of reasons. In 2017/18, 13,307 WDOs were closed with a zero balance, meaning all debt attached to the WDO was cleared. This represents 54% of all closed WDOs this year.

WDO participants – who are they?

In this section of the report, we explore who is participating in WDOs. Sections 8, 9 and 10 of the report provide extra information about specific groups. This section is a high-level overview of all participants.

Case study

Gabby* incurred $25,000 in fines, mostly from travelling on trains without a ticket. Gabby has chronic schizophrenia and won't use an Opal card as she thinks that the government will track her movements.

Gabby was hospitalised for many months receiving mental health treatment and during this time her bank account was garnished for $1450. On discharge, Gabby was to engage with the community mental health team. As medication compliance is always an issue for Gabby in the community, doing a WDO has been a great incentive for her to engage with the team to continue her mental health treatment. Gabby is clearing $1000 a month from her fines, while receiving the help and support she needs from the community mental health team.

6.1 Age

In 2017/18, people aged between 18 and 45 accounted for 75% of WDOs. Table 6.1.1 shows the number of WDOs approved in 2017/18 by participant age.

Table 6.1.1 – WDOs approved in 2017/18 by participant age

Age	WDOs approved in 17/18
Under 18	1,476
18 to 25	5,953
26 to 35	7,371
36 to 45	6,768
46 to 55	4,159
56 to 70	1,675
Over 70	1,054
Total	28,456

Figure 6.1.1 shows the distribution of WDO participants in 2017/18 by age. There was an increase in participants over 70, who accounted for 4% of WDOs in 2017/18, compared with 1% in 2016/17.

6.2 Gender

In 2017/18, over 65% of WDOs were for male participants. There were 42 participants who identified with non-specific gender. This was a gender option added to the self-service portal in 2016 in response to feedback from WDO sponsors and customers. Table 6.2.1 shows the number of WDOs approved in 2017/18 by each gender. Figure 6.2.1 show this distribution in a chart.

Male	18,379
Female	10,035
Non-specific	42
Total	28,456

6.3 Centrelink status

In 2017/18, 62% of WDO participants were receiving a Centrelink benefit. This is slightly less than 2016/17, when 65% of applications received a Centrelink benefit.

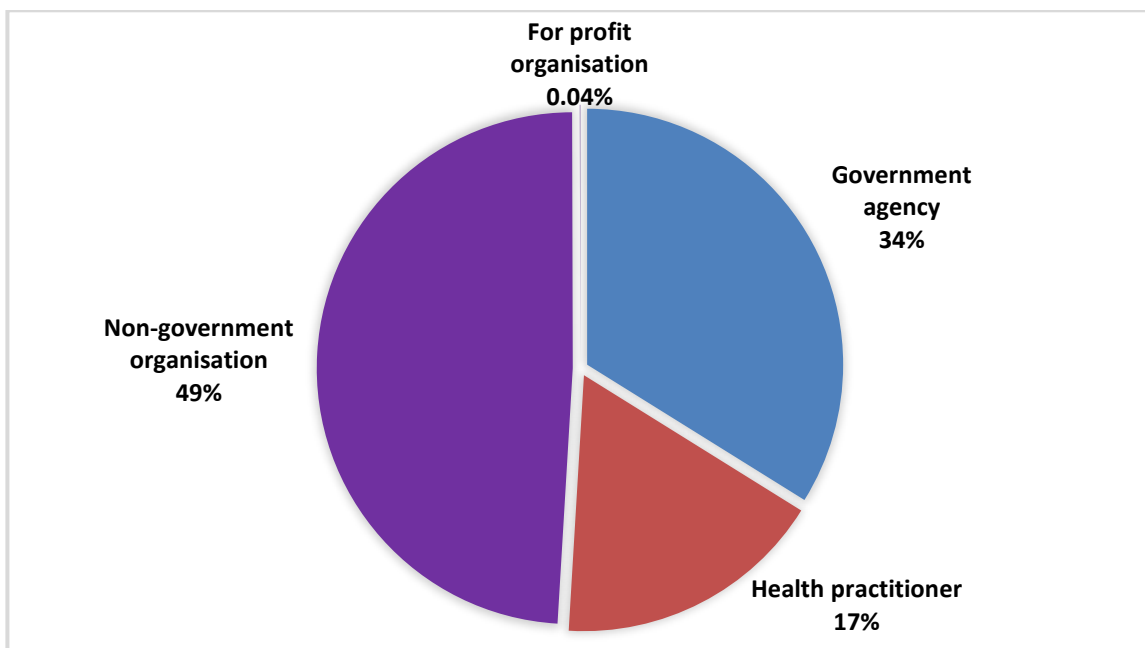

6.4 Sponsor types

In 2017, we introduced changes to the WDO Guidelines which allowed for-profit organisations to participate in the scheme. WDO sponsors can now include government agencies, health practitioners, non-government agencies and for-profit organisations who demonstrate that their objectives are aligned with the scheme.

In 2017/18, non-government organisations were the biggest supporters of the scheme with a massive 13,946 WDOs, accounting for 49% of all approved WDOs. Government agencies supported 9,637 WDOs (34%), health practitioners supported 4,861 WDOs (17%) and for-profit organisations supported 12 WDOs.

In 2017/18, we again compared the type of sponsor engagement with customer type. Figure 6.4.2 compares the sponsor type by age group, which shows a similar trend to 2016/17. Sponsorship by a government agency had a negative relationship with age - the likelihood of having a government sponsor decreased as age increased. Conversely, age had a positive relationship with the likelihood of being sponsored by a health practitioner – as age increased, so too did the likelihood of having a health practitioner as a WDO sponsor.

In Figure 6.4.3, we compare the gender distribution across sponsor types for WDOs approved in 2017/18. Government agencies were much more likely to support male participants (77%). The gender distribution of WDO participants supported by non-government agencies was more even (56% male and 44% female).

Eligibility reasons and activities

7.1 Eligibility reasons

Case study

Claire* had been living in Sydney and was homeless. She had moved home to live with her mother in Queensland to get back on her feet and deal with her drug addiction. Claire had been disqualified from driving and was eligible to get her licence back, but was prevented by RMS business restrictions due to unpaid NSW fines.

Claire had recently started treatment for drug addiction through her GP and was keen to undertake a WDO. Legal Aid NSW assisted her GP to become a WDO sponsor, business restrictions were lifted, and Claire got her licence back and cleared her debt by committing to a treatment program.

The most common eligibility reason for a WDO in 2017/18 was acute economic hardship. Figure 7.1.1 shows the range of WDO eligibility reasons for WDOs approved in 2017/18. Table 7.1.1 shows the number of WDOs approved under each eligibility criterion.

Table 7.1.1 - WDOs approved in 2017/18 by eligibility criteria

Eligibility reason	Number WDOs approved
Acute economic hardship	11,537
Serious addiction to drugs, alcohol or volatile substances	9,121
Mental illness	8,451
Homelessness	2,107
Acute economic hardship (under 18s)	607
Intellectual disability or cognitive impairment	591

Note: WDO participants can choose multiple eligibility criteria. Therefore, some WDOs will be counted in multiple categories above.

We also compared eligibility reasons by participant gender. Figures 7.1.2 through to 7.1.4 below show the eligibility reasons selected by each gender.

Male participants were more likely than females to apply under the ground of serious addiction to drugs, alcohol or volatile substances (32% compared with 22%). Female participants were more likely than males to apply under the ground of acute economic hardship (43% compared with 34%).

This year, participants who identified with a non-specific gender were less likely than other genders to apply under the ground of serious addiction to drugs, alcohol or volatile substances, and more likely to apply under the ground of homelessness. However, the number of participants who identified with a non-specific gender in 2017/18 was small (42), so these results should be interpreted with caution.

7.2 Activities undertaken

Case study

Jane* contacted the Surry Hills Neighbourhood Centre about doing a WDO. She was eligible on the grounds of acute financial hardship and agreed to undertake 70 hours of volunteer work to clear her debt. Jane had also enrolled online to study a Diploma in Community Services, so staff tailored her WDO activities to complement her studies.

She assisted with preparation and set up of community events and joined the monthly Saturday Community Café Team. Jane also used her admin skills to take minutes for local CDAT (Community Drug Action Team) meetings.

Over a period of three months staff reported Jane's growing social confidence as she connected with other community members. She has now paid off her fines in full and continues to volunteer. Jane is still studying and will undertake her work placement at the neighbourhood centre. She has also secured a part time job with a charity.

The most common activity in 2017/18 was drug or alcohol treatment. The least common activity was mentoring, however, this activity is limited to people under 25 years of age. Mentoring accounted for 3% of WDOs in 2017/18, in increase on 2016/17 (2%). This is a result of the change to the Guidelines in May 2017 making people under 18 eligible for WDOs under the ground of acute economic hardship.

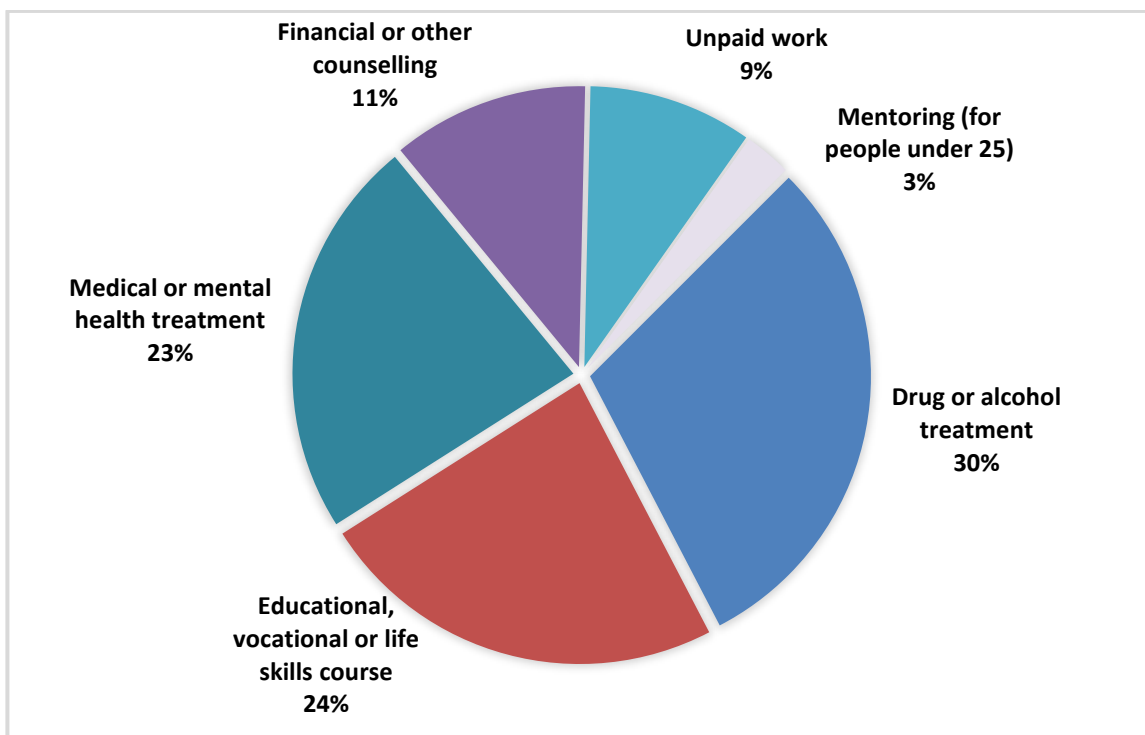

Figure 7.2.1 shows the range of WDO activities undertaken for WDOs approved in 2017/18. In Table 7.2.1, we have provided the actual number of WDOs approved for each activity type.

Table 7.2.1 - Activities undertaken for WDOs approved in 2017/18

Activity type	Number WDOs approved
Drug or alcohol treatment	9,145
Educational, vocational or life skills course	7,238
Medical or mental health treatment	7,056
Financial or other counselling	3,464
Unpaid work	2,886
Mentoring (for people under 25)	835

Notes: WDO participants can undertake multiple WDO activity types. Therefore, some WDOs will be counted in multiple categories above.

We also compared types of activities undertaken by each gender group. Figures 7.2.2 through to 7.2.4 below show the activities undertaken by each gender.

Male participants were more likely than females to undertake drug or alcohol treatment (31% compared with 22%).

Female participants were more likely than males to undertake financial or other counselling (17% compared with 7%).

Participants who identified with a non-specific gender were more likely than other genders to undertake medical/mental health treatment as their WDO activity, and more likely to undertake financial or other counselling. However, the number of participants who identified with a non-specific gender in 2017/18 was small, so these results should be interpreted with caution.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

In this section of the report, we explore the impact the WDO scheme is having on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. Note, all figures in the section of the report are based on demographic information captured at the time WDO sponsors submit WDO applications on the self-service portal.

Case study

Brian* is a 55 year old Aboriginal man from a remote community in Central NSW. He suffers from diabetes and mobility problems following a stroke, affecting his ability to perform everyday tasks. Brian lives with his teenage son and has a carer to assist with cleaning, shopping & showering. His only income is the Disability Support Pension.

Brian had outstanding enforcement order debt of $1,365.95 which he was paying off at $20 per fortnight through a Centrepay arrangement. After paying rent and utility bills, Brian and his son were living on less than $100 per week.

Between September and November 2017, Brian participated in a Living Skills program with Birrang Enterprises, a WDO sponsor, clearing $1,200 off his fines. Given his personal, medical and financial circumstances, Legal Aid NSW successfully applied to Revenue NSW to write-off the residual debt.

8.1 Participation

There was strong participation in WDOs from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people again in 2017/18. Table 8.1.1 shows the number of WDOs approved each month for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants and the value of debt attached to those WDOs when they were approved.

In total, 6,091 WDOs were approved, representing 21.4% of all WDOs. The average debt per participant was $3,752.49, which is approximately 14% higher than the average for non-Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

8.2 Demographics for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants

Gender

The gender distribution amongst Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants was similar to non-Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants (62% male, 38% female). Table 8.2.1 provides a breakdown of gender for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants.

Age

In 2017/18, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants tended to be younger than non-Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants. 62% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants were 35 or under, compared with 49% of participants who were not Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander.

8.3 Eligibility reasons for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participants

The most common reason for Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people in 2017/18 was acute economic hardship.

Table 8.3.1 shows the number of WDOs approved for ATSI participants under each eligibility criterion.

Culturally and Linguistically Diverse communities

In 2017/18, 3,785 WDOs were approved for participants who identified as being from a Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) community. In total, $9.9m of debt was attached to those WDOs at the time they were approved. The average debt for CALD participants was $2,621.10, which is 25.12% less than non-CALD people.

Approximately 64% of CALD participants were male, and 36% were female. There were seven participants who identified with non-specific gender. There was no significant difference in the gender distribution between CALD and non-CALD participants.

There was no significant difference in the age distribution between CALD and non-CALD participants.

Table 9.1 shows the eligibility criteria for WDOs approved for CALD participants in 2017/18. Figure 9.1 compares this with participants who are not from CALD communities. People from CALD communities were more likely to apply under acute economic hardship, and less likely to apply under the ground of serious addiction to drugs, alcohol or volatile substances.

Young people

The Fines Act 1996 and the WDO Guidelines 2017 provide specific concessions for people under 25 and additional concessions for people under 18. This section of the report provides information about both groups.

Case study

Jamie*, a 17 year old, was referred to the Legal Aid WDO Service through the Parramatta Youth Koori Court. Jamie was homeless and had $6,784 in unpaid fines, including multiple train fines. Jamie had finished his engagement with Juvenile Justice, was couch surfing, and had no money to pay back his fines.

The WDO Solicitor told Jamie about the 'Learn your Ls' TAFE course offered by the Aboriginal Education & Training Unit at the Mt Druitt campus of the Western Sydney Institute. TAFE Western Sydney has been a WDO sponsor since December 2012 and supports WDOs in an area of high juvenile fine debt. Mt Druitt has the highest overall fine debt in NSW, over $23 million in unpaid fines. TAFE offers WDOs to all enrolled and eligible students, and is a key WDO sponsor in an area of such high need. Jamie enrolled in the course, got on a WDO with the TAFE, and was able to clear his fine debt at the same time that he studied for his Ls.

Gender

The gender distribution for under 25s was comparable to people over 25, with the ratio of males slightly higher for under 25s (66% compared with 64% for over 25s).

Eligibility

Table 10.2 shows the number of WDOs approved for young people under each eligibility reason.

Table 10.2 - WDOs approved in 2017/18 by eligibility reason

Eligibility reason	Number of approved WDOs
	Under 18	Under 25
Acute economic hardship	610	3,420

Intellectual disability or cognitive impairment	53	208

Notes: Under 25 refers to all people under 25, including those under 18. Participants can choose multiple criteria - some WDOs will be counted in multiple categories.

The distribution of eligibility criteria was comparable between under 25s and people 25 and over. Young people were more likely to apply under the grounds of acute economic hardship, and less likely to apply under the grounds of serious addiction or mental illness.

Activities undertaken

Young people were more likely to participate in educational, vocational or life skills courses, and less likely to undertake medical or mental health treatment or drug or alcohol treatment.

There was some variance between the activities completed by young people and people over 25, however, it is important to remember that people 25 and over cannot undertake mentoring, so variance across the other activity categories was expected to be exaggerated.

Table 10.3 shows the number of WDOs approved for young people by activity type. Figure 10.3 compares this with people 25 and over.

Geographic dispersion of approved WDOs

Case study

Greg* is a truck driver living in South Australia with a history of mental health issues. He incurred two truck driving related fines totaling $1300 which he unsuccessfully attempted to dispute. When his bank account was garnisheed, his frustration and anger escalated.

Greg's Legal Aid solicitor explained that if he engaged in mental health treatment he could clear his fines by $1000 per month. This motivated Greg to get a new mental health plan with his doctor and psychologist. The solicitor arranged for a third party WDO sponsor to enter the WDO.

Greg was grateful for this assistance and the alternative resolution that was offered to him through a WDO. He admitted that he suffered from anxiety and depression and that the WDO motivated him to see his doctor again for a referral into treatment.

In 2017/18, scheme partners again focused on expanding WDO services to all NSW locations. Legal Aid NSW and its specialist WDO staff across the state continued to recruit new WDO sponsors and support existing sponsors through training, education and support.

In this section of the report, we have provided heat maps showing the geographic dispersion of WDOs across NSW. Location is determined by the applicants' residential postcodes. This is important, because WDO sponsors often support customers outside of their own location (for example, when undertaking outreach services), so the location of the WDO sponsor would be misleading.

Where the customer elected to use the sponsor address when submitting the WDO application, the sponsor's postcode was used (for example, homeless customers and those who are living in a residential treatment facility).

All WDOs supported by Corrective Services NSW and Juvenile Justice NSW were excluded, as including these WDOs would lead to exaggerated outcomes in locations where there is a correctional facility.

As noted earlier in this report, more than 50% of WDO sponsors are located outside of Sydney.

There has been good coverage across NSW since the scheme commenced. There were only a few Local Government Areas where there has not been a WDO approved. This trend continued into 2017/18.

There was also good geographic coverage across NSW of WDOs approved for Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander people. However, the distribution was less evenly spread compared with the general population. There were Local Government Areas in Northern NSW, North Western NSW, and the South Coast that showed dense activity again in 2017/18, a trend that has continued on from last year.
